

YELLOW-FEELING MAKES US WONDROUS
—Mr Page, well knowing that even a acknowledgement may cheer a back-this placed in our sanctum a few excellent tips.

Papago celebration on Monday last a display of some fifty naked savages bed with paint, and howling like demons the they danced around an Apache scalp ended from a staff.

Thursday last a party of Indians num- ing about 150 made a descent upon a herd of attle belonging to A. Lazard (better known "Frenchy") drove off the herders and cap-ed the entire herd. Unfortunately there reined at Camp Lowell only sufficient troops arrison the Post so that immediate pursuit ld not be made. But little hope is entered of recovering any of the stock.

Two Richardson Hotel will be reopened, unday the 17th inst., in the house of W. S.
ers. The table will be supplied with the best the market; Lodgers will find comfortable oms and no pains will be spared to make this us merit a share of public favor.

GENERAL DEVIN.—It has not occurred since engagement in conducting a public journal this city that we have been called upon to notice the departure of any gentleman whose withdrawal from our midst has caused such an iversal expression of regret in our community the departure of the subject of this notice, ho left for Camp McDowell on the 10th inst. is now about nine months since General evin arrived here from Prescott and relieved General Crittenden in the command of this sub-District; during that time all of that un-taunted energy and skill for which he became o noted during the rebellion has been exer-ised to its utmost to put down our terrible nemy "the Apaches." Notwithstanding the umber of men furnished him has been so very imited success has attended many of his ef-orts. Strange as it may sound abroad, about he only successful demonstrations made against the Apaches in southern Arizona since the advent of the California Volunteers, has been stained under the management of General Devin during his command of this sub-District.

As a Gentleman and soldier we have not met the superior of General Devin in all our experience in and out of the army. With his characteristic unpretending way of governing all his movements; he left us without any display, and so quietly that but very few of our citizens knew anything about it, otherwise he would have received that parting compliment he is so justly entitled to. We hear the expressions of regret universal in consequence of his being called from us to another field of labor.
We trust that every success will attend him wherever he may go.

INDIAN OUTRAGE.—The most daring as well as disastrous in result, among the many raids made by Indians in this section of Arizona, was that enacted on Tuesday last: The train of Messrs Tully & Ochoa, consisting of nine wagons and some eighty mules, left here on Monday last laden with government freight for Camp Grant. On Tuesday morning they discovered a large party of Indians at a short distance, and evidently preparing to make an attack. The wagon master, who bears a very high reputation as a skillful Indian fighter, immediately ordered his wagons hauled around so as to form a circle and then turning the mules within this inclosure, entered with the entire party, some fourteen men, and awaited the approach of the Indians. These cunning individuals well aware that they could obtain their prey only after an obstinate resistance which must be fatal to many of them, sent forward one of their party who, addressing the wagon master by name, (Santa Cruz) told him in Spanish that the Indians did not wish to injure him or his party; that they were strong enough to take the train by force, and advised him to leave everything and they would permit the whole party to go unharmed. The wagon master briefly responded, that they could have the train when he could no longer hold it. No doubt had the Indian translated to his fellow-warriors the wagon master's reply than the fight commenced. The little party was surrounded by about 200 Indians who kept pouring in volleys of arrows and bullets besides making dea-ful charges at intervals, until late in the noon, but were met at each charge by well directed bullets from within. After having maintained the struggle for about ten hours, the wagon master discovered that his stock of ammunition was about exhausted and three of his men lay dead; he was therefore undecided what course to pursue when an unexpected arrival accomplished his rescue—seven cavalry men, coming from Camp Grant to Tucson, arrived upon the scene—they charged a body of Indians who were yelling like demons at a short distance, but were driven back with two of their number wounded. The sergeant in charge seeing that it would be utter madness to contend further against a party of Indians whose number had now increased to over three hundred, and that his stock of ammunition must soon run short, as it required a constant fire to keep the Indians at bay, now agreed with the wagon master to leave everything and save their lives. The whole party accordingly issued forth in a body, while the Apaches who had lost several of their braves did not deem it prudent to attempt to make them prisoners, but after dispatching a cloud of arrows after them from behind every thicket, then took possession. Ere the escaping party lost sight of the Indians in the distance, they discovered the flames and smoke arising from the burning wagons and freight.

Upon the arrival of this news in Tucson, Col.
Barnard started for the scene of the disaster and returned on Friday evening after a fruitless pursuit of two days and nights.

Messrs Tully & Ochoa have lost in this raid property to the amount of about $12,000, and the loss to the government and to parties at Camp Grant, when added, will make a total loss of hardly less than $20,000.

Yet all this is nothing more than might have been foreseen—and who is blameable? Certainly some one is—not Messrs. Tully & Ochoa, for all who live under a government and pay taxes are entitled to protection of person and property; for this are taxes paid—nor can we attach blame to the military in Arizona they dare not furnish escorts; they are circum-scribed by orders to the contrary. We confidently hope that this occurrence, with the weight of various other incidents of a similar nature thrown in, may suffice to open the eyes of the higher military authorities to the fact that troops may be as judiciously employed in the immediate protection of property as in the pursuit of its destroyer.

Gate, the Photographer, will leave Tucson for the summer. Persons wishing pictures will call within three weeks. 2w
